IS IT SUNDAY YET?

I have always maintained that if I were within five hours of Camp Nebagamon on a Sunday, I would find a way to get myself there. Now, admittedly, since it is my job to be there on Sundays (and every other day!) this has not really been put to the test. But really... I would!!! To me, there are few better embodiments of Nebagamon than a well-executed Sunday.

We start our Sunday by sleeping in for 30 minutes (which actually has little to do with the embodiment of Nebagamon, but sure is a welcome break after a week of running hard, playing hard, and laughing hard). Then we head to the Rec Hall for the special Sunday breakfast of either cinnamon rolls or coffee cake (with some largely untouched hard boiled eggs in the middle of the lazy susan, just to make us feel like we are being responsible adults in our menu planning!!!) Sure it's sugary and indulgent, but shouldn't it be? After all, despite all of our lofty goals and deeply thought-out growth opportunities (more on that as this article progresses!), we are a summer camp for kids to have the time of their lives and indulge in some of their most favorite things in the world... ergo... SUGAR! Nebagamon is a place for kids to be kids.

About 30 minutes after breakfast is dismissed, we ring a bell, at which point, no matter who you are, no matter where you are, you stop what you are doing and silently walk down to the Chuck Hirsch Shrine for our Sunday Service. The service begins with a song sung by Nebagasound, our camp choir. The choir is made up of everyone from the tiniest and most meek 3rd grade Swamper to the coolest 9th grade Lumberjack, from the high profile wacky counselor to members of our support staff. It is a group from every corner of the camp family working together to make beautiful music for the rest of the camp family. Nebagamon is a place where we work together with beautiful results.

Our Sunday Services are wonderful opportunities for us to hear from some of our more senior staff members about topics that are important to them. Campers and staff members alike lend their minds and attention to these senior staff members, and sometimes daydream about what they will speak about should their time ever come to present a Sunday Service. This is a special and contemplative time of the week when the camp family engages together in lofty thinking about values and self-improvement. Nebagamon is a place where we think deeply and learn from others.

NEWS OF THE CAMP FAMILY

With the lists of tasks stacked high on the desk and May 1 now upon us, it has officially become Go Time for prepping for CN 2015! Yes, I'm going to try to sneak in a couple of hours of fishing here and there, but when May strikes it really becomes time to put the finishing touches on getting everything set for a sweet two months! Maybe all of you that are coming to camp can relate... All winter you spend hours following our Facebook and Instagram posts, texting buddies about the funny things that happened last summer, or just wondering what happened to all of your socks that you brought to camp...now as the summer approaches you need to start packing specific colored shirts for PBD or Grand Pursuit, dig out that SealLine dry bag for trips, and search long and hard for those darn missing socks and actually set them aside for the summer. The last thing you want to do is forget that shirt or rad bandana, or your tackle box that will help you catch a ton of fish. We feel the same way as we want to make sure that all of the trip permits are taken care of, ski boats tuned up, and all 1000 pounds of clay ordered to ensure a great summer will be had by all. So I wish you luck in your packing for the summer and I cannot wait to see you hop off that bus!

For those of you that are interested... fishing has been a tad bit slow this month. With very little rain, many of the north shore streams are quite low, thus not allowing for steelhead to come up and spawn. Lake Superior has been a tad bit better though. Last night we were out on the big lake near Washburn, WI and ended up catching 20 Coho salmon and brown trout. As always, it was a sweet evening to be out on the big lake.

In other news, the GaGa pit has been constructed is awaiting assembly somewhere down on the Lower Diamond. I'm really stoked to give this new game a try! We have one more Arrowhead before the summer, so if you win a gold medal at X-Games or finish your first Ironman, please be sure to send the news to forneare@campnebagamon.com. Hope everyone is excited for the start of camp (even if you are not of camper age anymore) and don't forget to pack that SealLine dry bag for your trips this summer!

IT MAY INTEREST YOU TO KNOW that Jacob Kassel (Atlanta) was selected to play on a Maccabi Games soccer team which will be taking place in Milwaukee this year. Josh Hanson-Kaplan (Boise) won the senior division of the Boise regional National History Day contest. He then proceeded to take 1st place for the state of Idaho. Josh will be competing in Washington D.C. in June. Anders Burvall (San Diego) (Anders is the husband of our camp nurse Amber who can always be found playing soccer with campers and staff on Sundays at camp) ran his first half marathon. Nice work Anders! Jordan Hornick (Oklahoma City) was named MVP for his school's basketball team. (Maybe I can draft him for my staff basketball team???)

IN THE WHERE-ARE-THEY-NOW DEPARTMENT: Nate Mendelsohn (Boston '01-'07, '09-'11) plays sax and electronics for the band called Drama Section. The genre is described as populist zombie jazz skronk songs pop nugs post-lullabye pre-spotify...its worth checking out. Joey Laskin (L.A. '00-'06, '08-'14) was promoted to Assistant Project Manager at Community Conservation Solutions. He's specifically working on the L.A. River Greenway Trail Project to restore native habitat. (I'm particularly proud, as this will in turn make it better for west coast steelhead.) Rose Lenehan (Chicago/Boston '07-'12, '14) will be teaching math at St. George's School in Newport, RI.

WEDDING CONGRATULATIONS go to: Karley Maugans (Vanceburg, KY/Austin '08, '10) and Michael Henson.

IN THE BIBS AND DIAPERS DEPARTMENT: It's a boy, Dylan, for Kate Mooney and Ben Broder ('91-'96, '98-'02).

BAR MITZVAH CONGRATULATIONS go to Sam Reichert (New York).

PLEASE REMEMBER TO RETURN YOUR CAMP FORMS BY MAY 15!

With the 2015 camp season quickly approaching, we'd like to issue a few reminders that will help to answer questions and make the transition into camp run as smoothly as possible.

- ❖ All families should have received our packet containing the Parent Handbook and instructions for completing your camper forms. All of the forms need to be submitted by May 15. If your doctor can't schedule the physical exam until after May 15, that's OK, but please shoot us an e-mail at briggs@campnebagamon.com to let us know. We read every form in its entirety, and the information helps us provide a fun and healthy summer for each camper. Please be diligent in filling them out.
- ❖ If your son will be using any daily medication in pill form, please note the due dates for CampMeds, a prepackaged medication service. (May 18 for first session and eight-week campers, and June 16 for second session campers.) This information was mailed to you in April and can also be found in the Parent Handbook.
- ❖ The camp office is moving to Lake Nebagamon on May 12 this year, and we expect to be up and running by May 14. After May 12, we can be reached at 715-374-2275.
- ❖ Please make travel arrangements as early as possible. If you are using the Official Travel Agency of Camp Nebagamon, Travel One, contact them at 1-800-245-1111 and work with Heidi Beyer or Sonni Banks. If you are not using Travel One, we need to know your plans by the May 15 deadline.

ICE BREAKS UP ON LAKE NEBAGAMON!

Again, as has happened in recent history, the ice broke on Adam Kaplan's birthday! On April 11th, under the careful watch of head caretaker, Andy Mack, Lake Nebagamon was finally ice-free. Luckily for this year's winner, Adam, as a director and technical full-time employee of Camp Nebagamon, was deemed disqualified for the contest.

The official 2015 entry closest to the time of the icebreak was April 19th. Jerry Graber, a loyal Nebagamon alum from Memphis, is this year's winner! Jerry's connection to our beautiful 70 acres on Lake Nebagamon clearly guided him to this very well-educated guess. Congratulations, Jerry!

Thanks again to everyone who submitted a guess to the 2015 Icebreaker Contest!

At Camp

CARETAKER JOE FLOORED BY Q'S CORNER

It all started out innocently enough; the plan was to do a basic renovation on the bathroom at Q's Corner. Q's is one of a trio of waterfront properties that Camp Nebagamom owns, just outside of the waterfront gate at the southeast corner of camp's 73 acres. Though purchased by camp sometime in the mid-seventies, the cabin is one of the original buildings from way back when the property was a logging camp at the turn of the 19th century. If you have occasion to check out the old time pictures from the late 1920s and early 1930s in the picture books in the Big House living room, Q's is the third building to the right of camp's gate and looks pretty much the same, just without the front porch and back kitchen additions. Since its purchase by camp, it has been used as staff family housing, and with its prime waterfront location it is an ideal spot. For the majority of its life with camp, it was occupied by former program director Frank "The Q" Sachs and his family, so the cabin was named "Q's Corner" several decades back.

Well now that you know a little of the building's history and that the core of the building is well over 100 years old, let's get back to the "innocent" beginnings of what was to be a basic renovation of Q's Corner's bathroom. The first problem the bathroom had was that the only way into the 6' x 7' room was through one of the cabin's two bedrooms, which as you can guess was a major inconvenience to whoever occupied that room, so adding another door from the second bedroom topped the renovation list. The only place for a door was where the water heater stood, so item two on the list was to move and re-plumb the water heater into the closet that backed the north wall of the bathroom. From there things seemed straightforward: remove the old flooring, replace the old crumbling plaster walls with fresh drywall, install new flooring and fixtures and that would be that! Should be easy enough, three or four weeks' work for one guy tops, or so we thought.

I started the project by myself in the third week of March. There was still a bit of snow on the ground and the lake was frozen over with more than 18 inches of ice, but the temps had jumped to above average in mid-March. We figured that by the time the consistently warmer April temps set in, I would be at the phase in the project where the warmer temps would be needed. Gauging the start of spring projects is always tough this far north: start too early and you have to pump a lot of heat into an uninsulated cabin, or start too late and the hidden issues push the project too close to the start of camp. The demo started well enough; the water heater came out and would fit nicely in the closet, and the old flooring was barely attached at this point in its long life and came out with no effort. But when I pulled the old toilet out the first indication of trouble appeared. A foot of the floor in front of and behind the bowl was completely rotted all the way through the subfloor! Next I pulled the tub and found that water had been leaking along the wall for what appeared to be a long time; the flooring again was rotted all the way through the subfloor. So, added to my simple list was a not-so-bad but time-eating floor sheeting tear up and replacement. Starting to get a bit nervous about my time frame, I forged ahead with the plaster and lath tear out and found another problem. There was an old archway buried in the wall where the new door was to go, which meant the whole wall had to be torn out between the second bedroom and the bathroom in order to do the framing for the new door; this added a couple more days to the innocent little project. And then the hammer fell! While tearing up the old rotted flooring I found that it wasn't just the floor sheeting that had rotted due to the leaky toilet and tub, but both the floor joists and the bottoms of the wall studs had rotted through as well! The innocent bathroom remodel had turned into a major top-to-bottom rebuild, and what was almost worse was that the weather had turned nasty at the start of April and Q's little gas heater wasn't big enough to stand up to the cold! Well, here I sit telling my tale about seven weeks after the start of what was figured to be a four week job, and the drywall just went up yesterday with paint, tile and fixture installation to go. At this point I'm really glad the room is only 6' x 7', and though there are several parts of the "Saga of Q's Innocent Bathroom Renovation" yet untold, I can finally see the light at the end of the project!

Glad there are only a few bathrooms left to renovate At Camp, it's Caretaker Joe.

EXCITING TRIP OPPORTUNITIES FOR SUMMER 2015!

LONG TRIP OFFERED FOR 9TH GRADERS

This summer, the wilderness tripping program will be offering a unique opportunity to 9th grade campers. The Long Trip is a 21-day paddle that spends the first two weeks exploring Quetico Provincial Park and the final week crossing the eastern border lakes of the Boundary Waters, on our way to the Grand Portage and our final destination... Gitchigumi herself... Lake Superior. The trip will offer a unique opportunity to fine-tune backcountry skills, apply leadership skills learned on previous camp trips, and hang out with friends one last time as a camper. Campers will be responsible for planning the meals, the route, and other aspects of the trip prior to departure. Towards the end of the trip, campers will have the opportunity to put their leadership and backcountry skills to use as they will be put in charge of leading the final six days of the trip. A truly once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to paddle the Quetico and the Boundary Waters, all in one amazing trip. Because of the geography and additional staffing requirements of the Long Trip, we will need to charge a cost of $250 to participate in this trip.

Camp Nebagamon is offering two rock climbing trips on the North Shore of Lake Superior this summer! Wahoo!

We will be offering one trip during first session, July 5 – July 8. Campers will set up a base camp at a Minnesota State Park and then climb during the day at multiple climbing locations. We will have spots for eight campers who will be guided by one Nebagamon Trip Staff and two instructors from the University of Minnesota-Duluth Climbing Center. The trip is open to grades 7-9, although older campers have first preference. The cost of the climbing trip will be $275.

SEA KAYAKING ON LAKE SUPERIOR!

Camp Nebagamon is offering two awesome Sea Kayaking trips on Lake Superior. Sitting in a 17 foot sea kayak on the world's largest freshwater lake is an experience that you'll never forget. On this trip you will paddle and camp on the Apostle Islands near Bayfield, WI for three days. The first day of the trip will be spent training on Lake Nebagamon.

We will be offering both trips during first session, June 21 – June 24 and June 26 – June 29. We will have spots for 5 campers per trip who will be guided by one Nebagamon Trip Staff and one instructor from the University of Minnesota-Duluth Kayak & Canoe Center. The trip is open to grades 7-9, although older campers have first preference. The cost of the sea kayaking trip will be $325.

IF YOU HAVE QUESTIONS REGARDING ANY OF THESE THREE EXCITING TRIPS, please contact Adam Fornear. He will also be emailing further details on registration to all 7-9th grade parents within the next couple weeks. Fornear can be reached at fornear@campnebagamon.com, 208-345-5544 ext 3 (before May 12) or 715-374-2275 (after May 12).

ATTENTION PARENTS OF 9TH GRADE CAMPERS!

If your son is a 9th grader and is planning on going to Quetico this summer for a two-week Big Trip, we will need a copy of his birth certificate to get him across the Canadian Border legally (sorry, but copies of passports are frowned upon by the US Customs when we enter back into the states). I will send out an email in mid-May that will include a generic permission letter that will also need to be completed. Both forms can be snail mailed (PO Box 429, Lake Nebagamon WI 54849), faxed (208-345-5454), or emailed to forneare@campnebagamon.com.

If you have any questions, please send an e-mail to forneare@campnebagamon.com.
Get excited for another great summer of wilderness trips!

JUST A SAMPLE OF OUR AMAZING STAFF!!

Two months from now, camp will be filled with roughly 350 incredible individuals. I have been talking to campers, parents, and staff, and they all share one thing in common: enthusiasm for the upcoming summer! Our hiring is 99.9% complete, and between the returning staff and new staff, we have a great lineup! Meet a sampling of our outstanding staff below. We'll publish a complete list in next month's Arrowhead.

Amy Rusch Mack joins us for her 6th season on staff after a 17 year hiatus. That sabbatical wasn't taken very far away, as Amy lives on camp property with her husband, and camp caretaker, Andy Mack and their two children Daisy and Leo (who will also both be working at camp this summer). Amy's first five years working at Nebagamon were all in the Craft Shop and, luckily for us, that is where you find her this summer as well! We are very fortunate to have Amy as the head of our Craft Shop, as her day job for the past eight years has been teaching elementary and high school art in the Maple School District. She has a bachelor's degree in fine arts and education and few years back earned her master's degree in education. When asked about why she wanted to be an art teacher she replied "It's an accessible way to express oneself...I love watching kids (while working on a project) get it, see how it works...it's the best feeling ever!" Amy is really excited to help create Camp Nebagamon's entry into the Village of Lake Nebagamon's July 4th parade, and also to share and teach her love of ceramics and glass bead making.

Andrew Benov joins us for his first summer at Nebagamon as the Climbing Wall Specialist. Andrew heard about Nebagamon from Daniel and Nate Mendelsohn this past fall; their love of our place piqued Andrew's curiosity and he decided to give us a call. Well, we're glad he did, as Andrew is going to be a great fit for camp and the climbing wall. Currently he is studying chemical and bio engineering at Montana State. Due to Montana State's awesome location, Andrew has also been able to pursue his passion for climbing. He spends a lot of time climbing outdoors and also works at the climbing wall on the campus of Montana State. He can't wait to share his enthusiasm for climbing and also to join the camp family!

Sunday evenings are as special as anything we do at camp. I think it is safe to say that anyone that has ever spent a summer at Nebagamon would agree that the time we all spend out at the Council Fire Ring every week is what really made it hit home that what we are doing at camp is truly special, truly meaningful, truly connecting, and truly life-changing. Each facet of our time at the Council Fire Ring is meaningful. There is great meaning and feeling as we file into the Council Fire Ring in silence. There is great meaning in the lighting of that giant campfire in which we all lose ourselves in quiet thought and reflection. There is great meaning in the series of skits that have been written by one of our staff members to illustrate a value or ideal as we laugh and learn together. There is great meaning in our Keylog ceremony, when boys are given the opportunity to publicly thank the people that have made a difference in their lives. There is great meaning the moment when we bow our heads in silent prayer for the health and safety of our loved ones. There is great meaning in the closing songs that we sing, as we throw our arms over each others' shoulders and sing together from the deepest parts of our souls. And there is great meaning in those final moments at the Council Fire Ring, when we gather together as a village to draw some warmth from the most warming and beautiful fire in the world... one made from our Keylogs... from our kindness and caring. Nebagamon is a place of great traditions and deep meaning.

Over the course of the last week or so, I have been engaging in one of my very favorite off-season tasks... planning out all of the Sundays for the summer. I find it both exciting and gratifying to pore through our staff list to try to find the right people to present our Sundays. The truth is, I am not sure there is a soul on that list that, as I think about them, would not be capable of delivering a truly quality Sunday Service or Council Fire. After all, we have already hired them to be role models and mentors. Needless to say, winnowing it down to just a few presenters each summer is a challenging task.

The next incredibly rewarding annual activity of mine is reaching out to each of the presenters to see if they are interested. Their reactions are always priceless... always a treat. I am treated to the staff member that doesn't even let me finish my offer spiel before blurting out "YES!!!!". I am treated to those that immediately want to talk about their topic and their ideas for the presentation... they have been planning this moment for years. I am treated to the staff member that responds with a very long minute of silence before accepting... utterly overwhelmed with a feeling of being honored and empowered. I am even treated to those staff members that speak of the tremendous honor of being asked, but decline, concerned that the Council Fire would draw too much of their attention away from their kids. When it is all said and done, each summer an amazing line-up of talent and ideas is established. And this summer's line-up completely fits the bill... an incredible group.

Nebagamon is a place of AMAZING SUNDAYS!

If this month's article seems to betray a gathering excitement and impatience for the summer of 2015 to get going already, it's because I have to say, I AM INCREDIBLY EXCITED AND IMPATIENT FOR THE SUMMER OF 2015 TO GET GOING!!!! Bring on the cinnamon rolls!!
